My silence about Dione is from her silence. This can mean she is in more trouble, but it is more likely consistent with the past, where she has withdrawn every time she was aware that I was pushing her. Unless she has something to say, I'd just as leave not hear from her, there being only so much time even a compassionate person can devote to epistolary hand-holding. It is possible that she went to La. but without a lawyer, I wonder how she'd have gotten permission to leave the jurisdiction. Her daring makes almost nothing impossible for her to attempt.
